Author's Note

I was performing at a charity event in my hometown back in North Carolina in March 2006. During the song “Paper Angels” I asked the audience to participate. They sang softly; then one by one they began holding these handmade paper angels in the air. Eventually the entire arena was glowing with paper angels waving side to side as the audience sang louder and louder. It was a spiritual sight. After the show, a girl handed me one of these handmade paper angels and said, “It took me a long time to make these. I hope you like them.” I taped that paper angel to the back of my guitar, where it has remained to this day.
